Dear Erin Deasy,

Congratulations! You are the recipient of the first ever Pittsburgh Zoo & PPG Aquarium Conservation Leadership Award! Through your project educating students in your school and at the Pittsburgh Zoo about the importance of recycling cell phones, and through the action of holding a drive to collect phones to be recycled, you have proven yourself to be a true leader for conservation. We, at the Pittsburgh Zoo, are proud to support your pursuit of higher learning in the biological sciences, as we are confident you will become a leader in your university, future career, and in the community at large. Never forget that small actions can make a big impact in the world and that you have the power to positively influence the future of the planet.

Congratulations Again!

Sincerely,

Mandy Revak

Dear Alissa Buck,

Congratulations! You are the recipient of the 2012 Pittsburgh Zoo & PPG Aquarium Conservation Leadership Award! Through your project setting up nesting boxes for Eastern Bluebirds, and through the action of communicating with township authorities and joining the Bluebird Society of Pittsburgh, you have proven yourself to be a true leader for conservation. We, at the Pittsburgh Zoo, are proud to support your pursuit of higher learning in the biological sciences, as we are confident you will become a leader in your university, future career, and in the community at large. Never forget that small actions can make a big impact in the world and that you have the power to positively influence the future of the planet.

Congratulations Again!

Sincerely,

Mandy Revak
